1. The Examiner has carefully considered Applicant's Response of 3/29/05. The Examiner finds that the amendment to claim 43 does not overcome the prior rejection. In particular, the broad language to "comprising an ordered microstructure" reads upon the dispersed first phase in the structural second phase. The amendment to claim 41 has overcome the prior rejection of that claim.

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

3. Claims 43-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fang et al. '382.

Fang et al. '382 disclose the invention substantially as claimed. Fang et al. '382 disclose a cermet material comprising :

a WC hard phase; and a binder phase of Fe-Ni-Co alloys (col. 7, line 8-13).

Fang et al. '382 disclose that the binder phase have a low coefficient of thermal expansion (CTE) of less than 8um/m-K.

Fang et al. further disclose a WC particle size of 1-15um (col. 9, lines 24-27).

Thus, Fang et al. '382 discloses that the CTE is a effective variable within the invention that is modified based on the desired toughness of the material.

Fang et al. '382 further disclose wherein the hard phase can comprise other carbides with the WC including TiC (col. 8, line 21-29) and can further include carbides, borides, nitrides, carbonitrides, carboborides, and mixtures thereof, such as those based on Ti (col. 8, lines 21-27).

Fang et al. '382 further disclose that the material be used in forming a cutting element. The determination of the ratio of the binder phase materials would be determined by one of ordinary skill through routine experimentation based on the specific selection of hard phase material and the desired toughness of the final material.

The binder material being in alloy form including dispersed grain structure of the disclosed density inherently meets the limitation of an ordered structure.

The Examiner finds that the broad language to "comprising an ordered microstructure" reads upon the dispersed first phase in the structural second phase.

4. Claim 46 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art not disclosing or rendering obvious the binder material being iron based.

5. Claims 1-5, 7, 10-21, 25-27, 29, 32-34, 37, 40, 41 and 42 are allowable.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
